"I consider your system of Permanent Camps as near perfect as it could be made "—Carter H. Harrison, Chicago.

"WYLIE WAY"

IN

YELLOWSTONE PARK

The evolution and success of the Wylie System is almost wholly the result of the commendation of satisfied patrons

It's only a question of what you want. We give our guests a real outing amid the pines, together with a complete tour of the Park Wylie's maintain in Yellowstone Park large permanent camps, situated on the regular roadway at the centers of interest, and operate a well equipped stage line between the camps. The necessary time for the regular tour is 6 days from Livingston and the complete cost $40.00 from Gardiner. Tourists may remain over time upon payment of $3.00 per day. Every tent is floored, framed and equipped with a stove and furnishings that make it as cozy as a summer cottage.

Tell Your Friends at Home About the Wylie System.

A Folder Mailed on Application.

WYLIE PERMANENT CAMPING CO., LIVINGSTON, MONTANA

(OVER)

LITTLE THINGS
—ABOUT—
YELLOWSTONE PARK

John Colter, of the Lewis and Clark expedition, was the first white man to see the Park. He visited the land of geysers in 1807.

The act setting apart Yellowstone Park was signed March 1, 1872.

The mean dimensions of the Park are 62 by 54 miles The area is 3,348 miles—more than Delaware and Rhode Island taken together.

Altitudes: Livingston, 4,510 feet; Gardiner, 5,297 feet; Mammoth Springs, 6,387 feet; Golden Gate, 7,300 feet; Continental Divide, 8,300 feet; Yellowstone Lake, 7,788 feet.

The lava arch at the north entrance was dedicated by President Roosevelt in 1903.

The great falls of the Yellowstone are 312 feet high The Grand Canyon is 2,000 feet at the top, 200 feet at the bottom, and 1,200 feet deep.

Old Faithful Geyser plays at intervals of 68 to 72 minutes to a height of 150 feet.

The stage trip through the Park from Gardiner or Yellowstone is about 150 miles. The government has spent about $1,500,000 upon the roads.

Lieut. Col. L. M. Brett is superintendent of Yellowstone Park.

Distances: Livingston to Gardiner, 54 miles; Gardiner to Mammoth Springs, 5 miles; Mammoth Springs to Swan Lake, 6 miles; Swan Lake to Norris, 14 miles; Norris to Upper Basin, 29 miles; Upper Basin to Thumb, 19 miles; Thumb to Lake, 16 miles; Lake to Canyon, 17 miles; Canyon to Norris, 11 miles.

Place this little card in your card case for future reference. (OVER)